Rationale

“You are the light of the world. A town built on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a bowl. Instead they put it on its stand, and it gives light to everyone in the house. In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see good works and give glory to your Father in heaven” (Matthew 5: 14-16).

These words from the Gospel of Matthew call us to let our light shine in the world, God has given us all many wonderful talents and abilities and calls us to service – to make our world a better place, to shine our light and by our example to spread the good news and to do good works. This forms the basis of our model of student leadership at Nagle College, one that is based on the notion of servant leadership.

For we are His hands in this world, it is us who can live out the Gospel message of love, hope and service. God calls us to a special mission, as members of a Catholic community we have a sacred mission to be the face of Jesus in this world.

As a Catholic school in the Salesian and Presentation traditions it is important that we develop the leadership potential of the young people entrusted to our care. This leadership can be through formal positions of leadership and informally through the actions of every young person in our community. There is an expectation that student leaders will act as role models for others, seek to serve others and be leaders in faith and social justice.

As a Catholic school we value the dignity of the individual and work to nurture the leadership potential of our students and assist them to develop their skills and talents while reflecting the Gospel values on which Catholic schools are built.

Our model of student leadership is designed to:

1. Develop the leadership potential of our students.
2. Promote a culture of leadership and service within the student body.
3. Enable our students to contribute to the life of the College and the wider community.
4. Foster leadership in the junior years and provide a process which mentors our younger students to develop their leadership skills and capacities.
5. Introduce a Student Council to enable more students to participate in the formal positions of leadership.
6. Strengthen the link between the student leaders and the house leaders.

Our patron St John Bosco was committed to developing the leadership potential of the young people he worked with as this would provide the light for the way ahead and drive it forward. At Nagle we aim to help our students live the College motto to “Let Your Light Shine”.
